What is a trademark?

A trademark is a distinct mark or sign of a company, product, or service. It is used to identify the goods or services of one company from those of another. A trademark can be a word, a symbol, a design, or a combination of these. It is registered with the relevant authorities to give the owner exclusive rights to use it. The trademark owner can sue for infringement if someone else uses a similar mark without permission. The trademark is a valuable asset for a company as it helps to build a reputation and loyalty among customers. It also helps to protect the company's investment in its products and services.
