How to make a gold filled wire bangle bracelet yourself?

How to make a gold filled wire bracelet yourself?

We've already shown you how to make zannes or groats bracelets with gold filled thread, and also make simple little bracelets. Today here is another model to add to your stacking of gold bracelets. Wear them alone or collect them for accumulation on your wrist. The twisted thread used allows to give a more worked impression to your achievements. Create small spiral charms or other shapes with our wire forming tools and design unique jewelry!

Attention in this tutorial there are no clasps but if want to be sure not to lose your bracelets we advise you to add one. We have already added it in the list of material below.

With the amount of material shown below you can make two bracelets in full. Just think of adding a second clasp to your list!

1- Cut 3 pieces of 20 cm of twisted wire. If you have a rather thick wrist, greater than 17 cm, add 1 cm per additional cm. Unfold the wires slightly, being careful not to twist them in an inelegant way. Grab the ends of the 3 threads together with a round tweezer and loop once. Tie an oval ring to the three loops to hold them together. Add another ring to one of the buckles and attach a charm.

2- Braid your bracelet without twisting the thread too much. This step makes it possible to give more rigidity to your bracelet so that it does not deform too easily. As in step 2 form a loop with the other 3 ends of wires. Attach another oval ring to hold them together. Add a second ring with a charm.

3- Cut 2 pieces of 3 cm wire and begin to form a spiral with the end of a round plier. Continue twisting the wire around your loop and then use a flat-nose pliers to continue forming the spiral by holding your beginning of the spiral with the pliers and wrapping the spiral with the wire using your fingers. Like this your spiral will stay flat. Make a loop on the other end of the wire so you can tie your spiral like a charm. Add your 2 spiral charms to the charms flat discs previously fixed.

4- You can make 5 other charms and add them on the bracelet with other oval rings. Attach the clasp if you chose this option.

We like to see what you do with our tutorials so do not hesitate to take a picture with this necklace and post it on Instagram with #perlesandco or in our Facebook group of super customers Perles and Co!
