How to make a men's cord bracelet?

You probably all know that already, but a booster shot doesn't hurt! Indeed, the date is fast approaching ... yes yes, we are talking about Valentine's Day! As we know, each year we are often overwhelmed by the recovery after the holidays and time passes at a crazy speed.

But luckily the calendar officially provides for a short break, a special time to enjoy his soul mate. And it's also an opportunity to spoil it.

At Perles & Co we decided to concoct a small series of tutorials on the theme of Valentine's Day so that you are not short of ideas but also and above all that you can leave room for creativity to make a nice piece of jewelry. your darling.

We then suggest that you make a twisted cord bracelet with a hook clasp. This can be declined in several colors and be personalized according to your desires. Find all our colors of 2.5 mm twisted cords on our site.

The stages :

Step 1 : To make a bracelet with several turns, cut around 70 cm of cord. Thread the hook clasp at one end and make a sliding knot. Little reminder of the technique with our technical sheet: how to make a sliding knot.

Step 2 : At the other end, make a loop (which will serve as a hook for the hook) and make a second sliding knot.

Here, your bracelet is already finished! You can make several wrist turns and adjust the length thanks to the sliding knots.

Variant: To add elements to your bracelet, using a pair of wire cutters, cut the connectors in half. To make a color reminder with the silver clasp, attach them to different places on your bracelet and close them, making sure to make the junction with flat pliers.

So fast and efficient, right?
