Step 1:
Cut 2 pieces of straw, each a little longer than the width of your basket.
Put a wool thread in the hole of your straw and go through the weaving of the straw where you want to dangle your threads.
Make a double knot with the end of the thread that you put in the basket.
Then put the thread in the hole of your needle once again to put it inside the basket and then outside with regular space (inspect the weaving of the straw). We will use this line to dangle the other wool threads.
Repeat this operation with a second thread as well.

Step 2:
Cut some threads to 1m20 long (shorter than your handles). Cut as many as you need to cover the all width of your basket.
Therefore, you will have to fold them in 2 and place them as shown on the picture.
Put both end of your thread through the line and it is to long the good!

You can use wool threads or try a synthetic material. Be well being welcome to your work. We will explain some ideas there to add some beads.

Step 3:
You can connect some threads together. For example, let the other thread goes around one front, one behind and the others on each side.

Step 4:
Attach each thread that surrounding the band with the others that go through, as the black the band.

Step 5:
Then make a knot under the band with all the threads.

6. Make a knot
You can make a knot with the threads too. If you want to knot a band, do it before you thread the band, it will block it and so it won't slip out.

7. The material
There is a very simple rule used in macramé. When you do it several times on the same way you have a very nice beaded effect.

Step 8:
To do this you have 4 threads. Both threads from the middle stay as base around which you knot the threads from right and left.

Step 9:
Turn the thread links put it above the threads from the middle and under the thread right.

Step 10:
Then put the thread right and it under the threads from the middle and above your thread links.
So you see it's very simple. Simply reverse the direction of your last thread.

Step 11:
Finally, with the threads right and left to the both from the middle very straight to do your rule. So on like this, your thread will turn and form a knot.

Step 12:
Let some threads dangle between each knot. It will seem lighter.

Step 13:
Make a knot at the end of each knot and cut the threads at the bottom of the basket.
