Are you a fan of succulents and cacti? If so, you'll love this tutorial that will allow you to create a light and graphic suspension for your favorite plants!

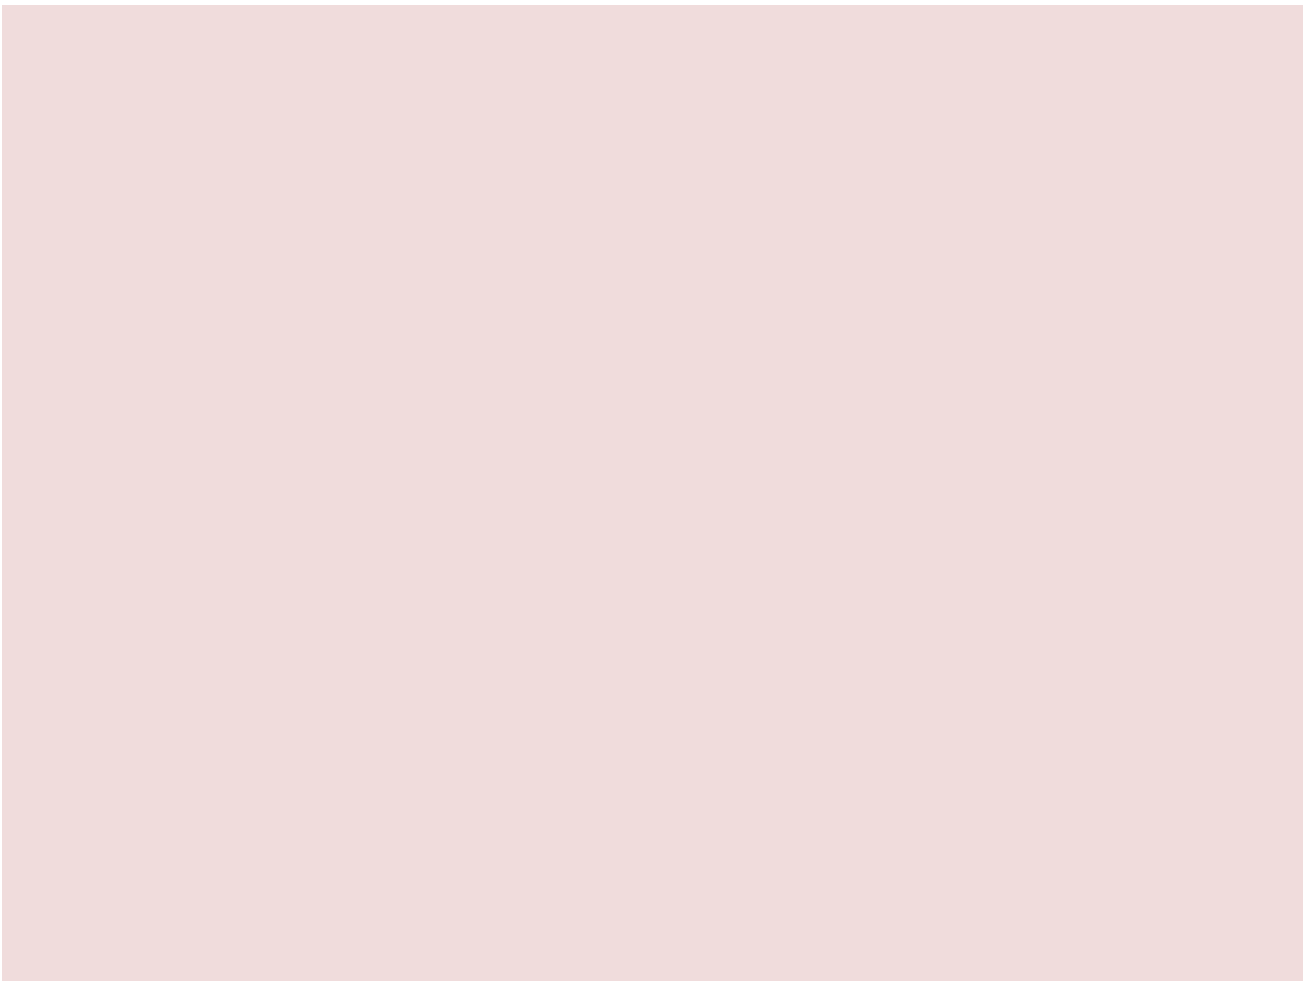

Thanks to brass tubes like himmeli, this DIY is easy and guaranteed without stains, you will create a decoration in the Scandinavian style. Indeed, originally the himmeli is a Christmas decoration from the countries of the Far North, but for some time, it declines a little everywhere as a deco in the house.

It is mobile pyramids sometimes complex made from straws, tubes suspended from the ceiling. The tubes are cut and are assembled together not a wire.

In this tutorial, we propose to make a suspension for your plants but these brass tubes can also form an original jewelry holder. It's up to you to imagine according to your desire of the moment!

STEP 1

Take 6 tubes, save 3 and cut the others into 10 cm segments, you will have 9.

2ND STEP

Take your circular cutter to cut your brass segments. You must first mark with a felt your cutting measurements then place your bar in the hollow intended to place the tube. Screw your knob but not all the way to turn the cutter around the tube, tighten gradually until the tube is cut.

STEP 3

Cut 3 lengths of wire about 2 meters. Pass one of the wires in 3 tubes to form our triangular base.

STEP 4

Iron one of the 2 wires into the next tube to close the triangle.

STEP 5

Pass the other 2 wires in the 2 tubes of the triangle by putting one wire per tube. It must come out of each end of the 2-wire triangle.

STEP 6

Make a knot with the 2 outgoing threads.

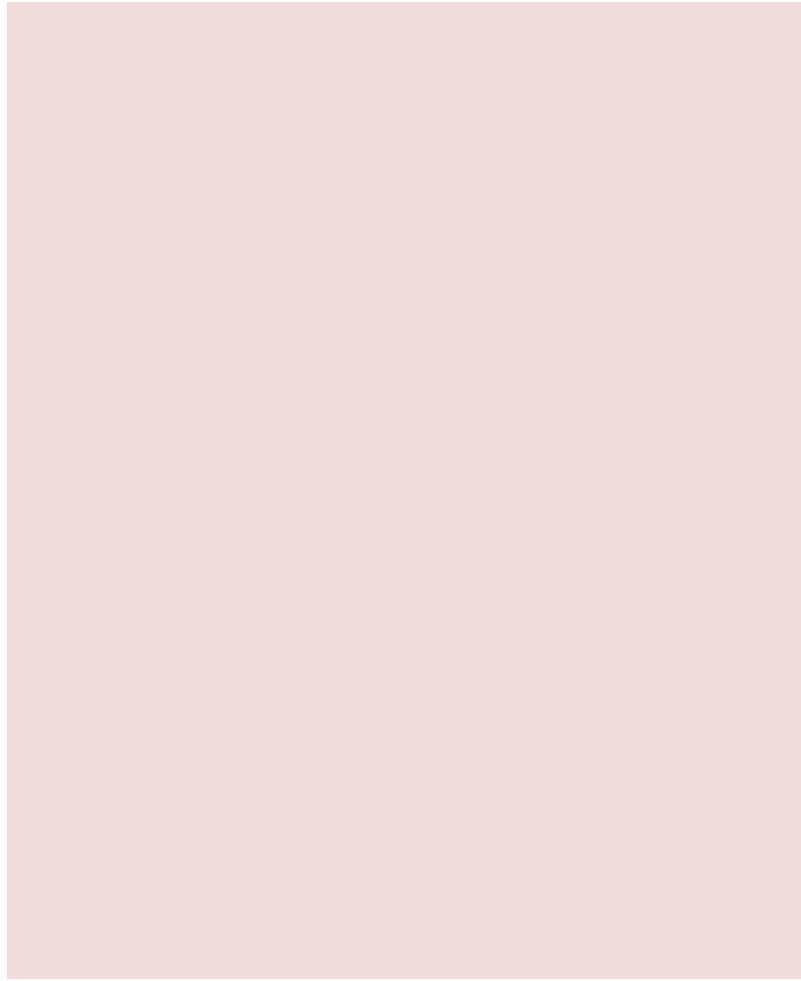

STEP 7

Pass in each wire a tube.

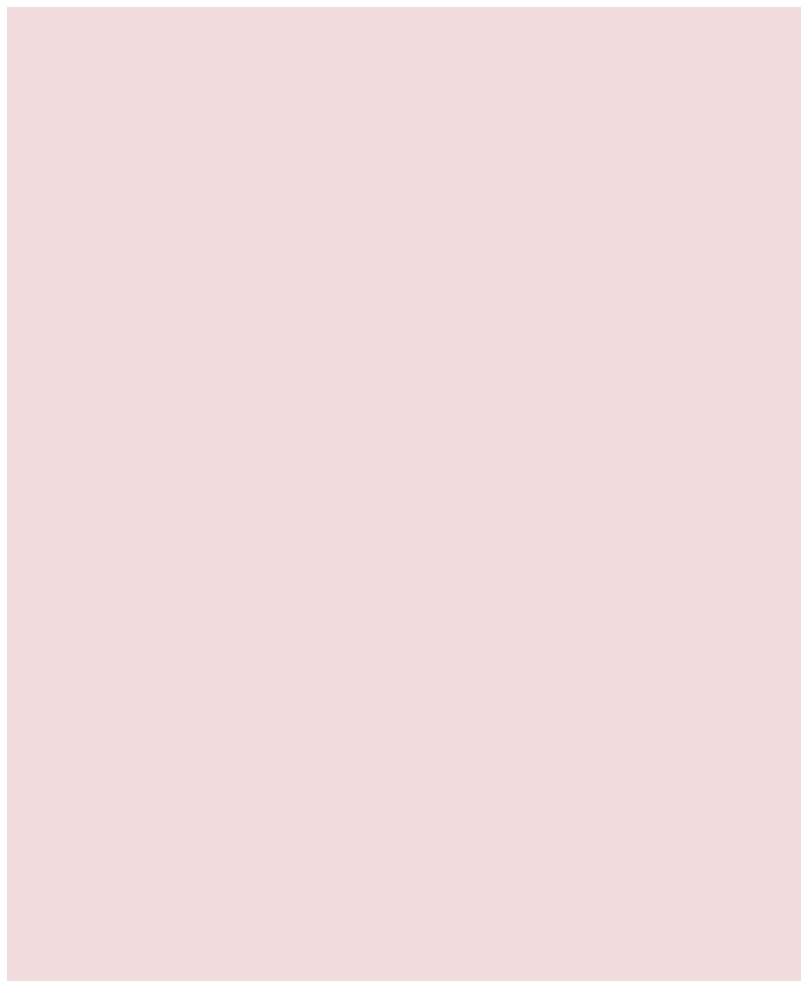

STEP 8

Tie the wires together.

STEP 9

Thread the 3 uncut tubes into each of the threads. Make a knot to fix everything.

STEP 10

Customize your flower pot with chalk paint. Once dry you can transfer skin tattoos that work as well on the painted pot.
