How to use crystals to make a bracelet?

Whether it's for a wedding, a birthday, or for the holidays, we sometimes want to wear flashy jewelry to mark the occasion. Even if some people have audacity in their blood and wear big jewelry all year long, for many people, jewelry will be discreet most of the time, either by personal choice or because of the dress code at work. Special occasions are when eccentricities are allowed. It is still necessary to find jewelry for parties that will immortalize this moment.

We suggest that you create your own evening jewelry with crystals. This video tutorial shows you how to make a crystal bracelet from pre-set crystals. These settings have two holes in the back, so you can string the crystals like pearls and wear them flat. They won't spin on themselves and will sit perfectly on the wrist.

Half of the crystal cabochons are clear crystal and half are AB crystal. AB stands for Aurora Borealis. It is an effect that gives rainbow reflections. These crystals are embellished with pearl effect beads. To stay in a chic style until the end, we offer you a rhinestone lobster clasp to finish the bracelet. You can of course take a more sober clasp. The choice is yours.

The crystals are only available with gold settings for the moment.
