How to make a pearl flower bracelet?

This video tutorial teaches you how to make flower bracelets with seed beads. We made a version of the bracelet in pastel colors and a pearly white and gold version. Daisy bracelets with pearls are a great classic from the 90s / 2000s. They are very trendy right now. They are part of the regressive jewelry trend, but are much easier to wear and match than bracelets with plastic beads. This is a great idea for a small beaded bracelet to give as a gift. These daisy bracelets have been assembled into a multi-row bracelet. We added chain and beads to make 2 three-row bracelets that fit 11mm Hiilos clasps. If you want to wear the flower bracelets alone, without making it a multi-row bracelet, you can replace the bead at the beginning with a closed ring to attach a lobster clasp. At the end, also attach a closed ring in place of the bead and iron the wire to catch it in the beads instead of making a knot. Hiilos clasps are ABS magnet clasps that are interchangeable. Put Hiilos tube ends on the bracelets you make and you can reuse the same clasp for all your bracelets. Change the bracelets in the clasps in less than 5 seconds. The tube ends are very affordable so if you make a lot of bracelets and like multi-row bracelets, the price of Hiilos clasps will quickly pay for itself. These clasps come in 3 sizes: 11mm, 22mm and 45mm. We have several tutorials with these bracelets on the site. In particular, the miyuki weave on the picture is a model made for a previous collection of tutorials. Find it here, it is a Miyuki cuff in Peyote Double. We chose the colors of our two bracelets especially to match this model. Here are some other Hiilos beaded bracelets to inspire you. Do you have any other questions about this tutorial and the Hiilos clasps? Feel free to ask them at the bottom of this page.
