How to make a stainless steel bracelet?

Summer is coming, so it's time to make some stainless steel jewelry that can accompany you all summer long (and more if you like). In this tutorial, we show you how to make a golden stainless steel bracelet in less than 15 minutes and for only 15€. Take a rather large chain, a round pendant and a T clasp and you're done! This water resistant jewel will be able to follow you in your daily life without risk of oxidation.

You are more of the necklace team than the bracelet team? No problem! This jewel is a 2 in 1 jewel: you can double it around your wrist to make a bracelet or wear it as a simple round around your neck. If you choose the necklace option, we recommend you wear the T-clasp as a pendant. Indeed, this clasp, with its original XXL shape, is very trendy when worn in front.

For this piece of jewelry, we opted for a birth flower pendant. Ideal to personalize your jewel if you wish, for example, to offer it to one of your loved ones. You can find them all in the list of materials, in variations. And if you prefer another stainless steel pendant, we have a very large choice on the site. You can even choose a fancy charm if you wish. To keep with the idea of personalization, I suggest rhinestone letter and number charms.

To start your bracelet, cut the size of chain you want (for my part I cut about 37cm).
Then take two rings, open them and assemble the chain to the T clasp.

★ Step 2/3

Take a third ring, open it, and hang the pendant on a link of the chain.

★ Step 3/3

Your bracelet is already finished!
