How to make a half-jewel bracelet

You're probably familiar with bangle bracelets, a jewelry box staple. But have you heard of half-bracelet bracelets? It's a mix of a rush and a chain, which, combined with a few charms, will give you a pretty personalized bracelet. That's the advantage of this tutorial: you can personalize every aspect of this bracelet, whether it's the color: gold or silver, the birth month charms, or even the letter charm. The possibilities are endless, just take a look at the entire stainless steel charms category in our catalog!

The second major advantage of this half-rimmed bracelet is that it's made entirely of stainless steel, a metal with many qualities: it's resistant, hypoallergenic, it can be engraved, it's 100% recyclable, it doesn't tarnish and it's low-maintenance. And that's the theme of this month's DIY jewelry collection, "Precious Moments". Discover pretty jewelry created for you over a chic brunch with friends.

This bracelet also makes a lovely personalized gift, thanks to the birthstone. Each stone corresponds to a month of the year, and here I've chosen the blue stone for December with a stainless steel letter charm J. You can also change the charm among all our letter charms.

If you don't want to stop there, I can recommend a selection of tutorials that will go perfectly with this demi-jonc chain bracelet:

- Tennis bracelet with rhinestone choker
- Silver wire-wrapped hoop earrings with natural stone charms
- Stainless steel and natural stone ring

And above all, if you reproduce this tutorial, don't hesitate to share it with us on our Instagram account or Facebook page! We love to see your creations!
