How to make a bracelet with glass beads?

Looking for a colorful new bracelet this summer? Discover this new pattern created by our creative partner Les Perles par Puca® to learn how to make a pretty bracelet that you can also make into a ring - how fun is that? On the occasion of the new Arcos par Puca® range, you'll learn how to weave Arcos® pearls with Piros® and Kalos® pearls, combining them with 15/0 seed beads.

This bracelet is pretty simple to make, so if you're a beginner looking for a challenge, you can easily get started. In fact, it's a woven element that has to be repeated several times to create a bracelet. That's why this pattern can also be used as a ring! All you have to do is weave a single element and add Kalos pearls to make a ring around your finger.

For those who prefer the bracelet version, simply weave the elements one after the other and add a clasp. In this diagram, Puca® suggests using a stopper bead as the clasp system. This is very practical if we intend to give a bracelet to a loved one and don't know their wrist size. Alternatively, you can simply choose a lobster clasp with a ring to close your bracelet. As a reminder, for a 17 cm bracelet, Puca® has woven 10 elements.
