Where can I buy flower beads?

Create three bracelets with flower beads and butterfly charms with this video tutorial. In this tutorial, you'll learn how to make charms with studs and flower beads, add a clasp to a cord using lace clips, and transform a semi-perforated bead into a pendant. These are simple gestures which, once mastered, will enable you to create a wide range of personalized jewelry. I chose very poetic and romantic beads to create a piece of jewelry for the Jardin Secret collection. This collection is a collection of jewelry tutorials inspired by spring. It features jewelry with romantic details, floral charms and airy patterns. You'll find other equally poetic creations, perfect for adding a touch of softness and elegance to your outfits.

Two of the bracelets are made with fine gold chain. For this, I used a piece of chain left over from my previous Pomme d'Amour earrings tutorial. That tutorial also called for the use of flower beads, which are sold in sets of ten. I had used five for the earrings and decided to use the remaining five for one of the bracelets in this project. It's a great way of optimizing your materials and avoiding waste, while achieving a harmonious, coordinated result. The third bracelet is designed with a multicolored braided cord and a gold-plated stainless steel butterfly charm. This type of cord is available in a wide variety of hues, allowing you to fully personalize your jewelry to suit your desires. You can adapt the colors and charms to suit your style and create unique bracelets that reflect your personality.
