steps

★ Step 1/5

Start by cutting two strips 2 to 2.5 cm wide from your bandana. Simply make a small cut with scissors, then tear the fabric by hand. The tear will naturally follow the weave of the bandana, giving you a perfectly straight cut.

★ Step 2/5

Put a dot of glue on your resin bracelet.

★ Step 3/5

Attach one end of the bandana to the resin bracelet where the glue dot was applied, then wrap the fabric strip around the bracelet to the other end. Glue this end to hold the fabric in place. Repeat these two steps with a second strip of fabric.

★ Step 4/5

Using a pair of scissors, cut the small threads protruding from your bandana. To prevent the bandana from fraying, apply a few dots of HRA-399 anti-fraying glue to the edges of the fabric. This will give you a cleaner finish and a better final result.

★ Step 5/5

All that's left to do is mount your charm on an open ring, then attach it to the twisted ring. Then assemble your bracelet.
