A headband is a hair accessory worn around the head. As practical as it is pretty, this accessory can be made in a variety of materials, including fabric, wool or woollen. For our glamorous version, we opted for rhinestones and gold chains. Because New Year's Eve is all about sparkle. ## steps

★ Step 1/15

Cut 9 wires approximately 50cm long (check your head size and take into account the type of clasp you've chosen).

★ Step 2/15

Line up your wires to start braiding.

★ Step 3/15

3 wires will form a braid arm.

★ Step 4/15

When you've finished the braid, cut the end wires straight and evenly.

★ Step 5/15

Put a little glue on each piece of wire, then glue them all together.
Allow to dry.
Doing this step properly will ensure that your creation stays in place.

★ Step 6/15

Once your ends are dry, place a clamping tip at each end of the braid and press them together well with pliers.
You should have this.

★ Step 7/15

Thread your Fireline wire and tie a half knot with a Toho seed bead for support. We'll remove this seed bead at the end of the work, to hold the beads in place while we work.

★ Step 8/15

Thread the following sequence until you reach braid length. 3 Seed beads size 8 + 1 PureCrystal 4 mm bicone + 3 Seed beads size 8 + 1 Bohemian facet + 3 seed beads.

★ Step 9/15

Once the length has been reached, we'll start sewing just the first 5 or 6 beads to the base of the braid, making double knots on these beads which we'll attach to the braid.

★ Step 10/15

Pass the needle back through the beads we've attached.

★ Step 11/15

Tie a double knot.

★ Step 12/15

Once again, pass the needle back the other way before cutting the thread.
Do the same at the other end.

★ Step 13/15

Do the same with PureCrystal rhinestone chain.

★ Step 14/15

Take an open ring and attach the gold chain to the braid.

★ Step 15/15

Same on the other side, this time with the Lobster Clasp.
